Issue #14 (2023)

The international, peer-reviewed and open access journal «pl.it / rassegna italiana di argomenti polacchi» is accepting submissions for its fourteenth issue (2023).

We are most inclined to receive proposals of papers focusing on the topics of War in Polish literature, culture and language. We do not wish by this to refer specifically the Russian invasion of Ukraine, but to a more general approach, which could include such topics as:

- Evolution of literary forms and genres of war narrative
- Literary perception of war and military conflicts (even narrated in an ironic or sarcastic way, as in heroi-comical poems)
- Warfare rhetoric
- Anti-war literature
- Resilience to war trauma
- War and persecution in Polish history and culture, etc.

You may add other suitable outlooks to the subject. We think that any Polish literary period may offer interesting material for investigation on the mentioned topics.

Proposals for contributions, with title, a short abstract (max 2,000 characters with spaces) and a brief profile of the author (300-600 characters with spaces) should be sent by October 31, 2022 to segreteria.plit@gmail.com. The articles should not exceed 45,000 characters (including bibliography and footnotes). Please note that the papers submitted to the journal must be original, hitherto not published elsewhere in any language. Each paper will be submitted to double-blind peer review before being accepted for publication.

The papers may be written in Polish, Italian or English. Notification of acceptance or rejection of the subject proposed in the abstract will be communicated by November 30, 2022. The deadline for submitting the definitive text of the papers is February 28, 2023.

The issue is planned for publication in December 2023.
